We have invested Ã,Â£000s

Since September 2006 when the crew of FashionCapital got together to relaunch FashionCapital we have spent Ã,Â£000s perfecting the site with improvements such as a new server to cater for the vast amounts of traffic now recieved, multi media, new BSO networking information, new journaists headed by our multi talented editor Jo lles and we have even managed to secure Caroline Shaw on trends again.

There is no other site like fashioncapital.co.uk. Its free and easy to use and its here to make your job out their in fashion easier.

We will still keep on investing into the site but please always feedback if you feel as though there is anything missing.

Kind regards

Jennifer Holloway

I have used this site for years and its helped me no end. I use it even more now that the site has been improved I really like the DVD section too.

Keep up the good work

Thanks Silvie it's great to have some feedback.

If there's anything else you need on the site let us know!

Have a good 2007!

Jenny

I only found this site recently and its helped me stop making mistakes. There's so much info on here that I sometimes spend ages just going through all the different sections. Perhaps you should develop some kind of quick search function box so it can take us directly to where we want to go?

I love it though I am not complaining!

I went on your mentoring session to and for me this was a God send. I couldn't get my head around how production works with manufacturers and I always felt stupid when I went into local factories. At least I now what I am talking about now.

Narisa.

i think its great to have a site like this - its here to help everyone. i promised Jenny that i would start saying things in here to help people as Jenny as helped me loads. she has actually got me £100k to open up a new factory thru the LAD so how good is that. People like Jenny r hard to find and she does what she says.
