
pattern and sample cutter available

Posted by cutwork - 2008/06/24 18:05

Since graduating from the London College of fashion I have gained work placements as a designers assistant to Michelle Lowe-Holder etc. I then began working freelance as a pattern and sample cutter for new labels including Hemyca womenswear. Over the past year I have been employed full-time as a sample cutter for a designer where I was responsible for cutting the sample collection, altering patterns, drawing up costings and layplans by hand etc. I am looking for full-time employment in central london for a womenswear company. Should you like to view some examples of my skills these can be seen at www.openfolio.com/users/lauratoal

Thanks

Laura

xx
