

---

Skills Exchange

Posted by stitchstitch - 2007/07/09 21:07

---

I'm looking for someone to teach me crochet and amigurumi. I am good at most craft skills, but i'm finding this tricky to learn as i don't have any grandparents or relatives to teach me. I live in London and thought this might be a nice way to meet a fellow craft / design person.

I return (on and hour for hour basis) i can offer sewing, cutting out, or maybe teach you another craft you don't know?

Email me so we can chat further and maybe help eachother out?!

Vic @ red_elmo23@hotmail.com

---

Re:Skills Exchange

Posted by jojo1 - 2007/07/10 13:25

---

Hi,

Not a skills exchange but just thought I'd mention the Weardowney School of Handcraftmanship - they offer various handcraft courses at their boutique in Marylebone. Maybe good to hook up with other crafty folk. For more info e-mail: school@weardowney.com or call 0207 725 9694

---

Re:Skills Exchange

Posted by stitchstitch - 2007/07/18 14:05

---

Thank you - but not really what i'm looking for :-)

---

Re:Skills Exchange

Posted by JenniferHolloway - 2007/07/21 05:54

---

Have you heard of the Vauxual City Farm in London?There is a group of women who meet each Saturday and use the spinning facilities there. I believe that some have the skill base you are looking for.

There is a man called Nigel Rust who is very involved with the group. He works there on a charity basis but you can contact him on 07734 418778.

Good luck

---

Re:Skills Exchange

Posted by SEQUENCE - 2007/07/25 16:22

---

I know this place. I can recommend them. They are just a small group of woman that get together each Saturday down there. Its a real find.

John

---

Re:Skills Exchange

Posted by stitchstitch - 2007/07/28 20:35

---

---

That sounds so nice - but i work Saturdays, what a shame! The spinning sounds excellent :-)

=====