Posted by LynsayLovesFashion - 2008/01/31 14:44

Very late notice I know! but I've only just found out about this fantastic site!

IF ANYONE is looking for some help during London Fashion week I would be very eager be of assistance. I will do anything!! I will pay for travel costs to London, but would ask for a travel pass for the week and if possible some lunch money, I already have accomodation in the Shoreditch area.

Im very reliable, great with people and extremely keen:woohoo: to further my experience in the fashion industry.

I am currently in my honours year of Fashion and Business and would love some insight into the fashion industry and a chance to get subsequent work experience by building contacts and distributing my CV. Please email me on lmcon16@caledonian.ac.uk

Want to work in fashion?

If you've seen The Devil Wear Prada, you'll know that the fashion industry is a notoriously difficult industry to get into, and even trickier to be successful in.

StyleAware are running a series of one day beginner's workshops from the 7th-18th July.

Led by Faye Marriott, this unique course provides an insight into the exciting world of fashion assisting and styling for those who want to succeed in this fast growing, fast paced and cut throat industry. You will be introduced to the fundamental basics of fashion assisting which will enable you to eventually become a stylist in your own right. The course also covers:

• How to get started, work experience, who to contact, cover letters and CV building.

• Fashion internships-everything you need to know to be a success, from introductions to PR agencies, how to stand out from the rest, to the rules and etiquette of the dreaded 'fashion cupboard'

• How to assist on fashion shoots- learn how to become the best fashion assistant in the business, and become indispensable to stylists.

• How to get your first paid job as a stylist, portfolio building and how to be a stylist on your own.

Places are limited and cost £100. For more information and to book please email info@styleaware.co.uk.
