
Designers need Buyers.

Posted by Renatogrant - 2008/02/07 22:01

No matter how beautiful your collection, without buyers, it becomes redundant. I am a London Based Fashion Agent representing 5 high profile designers. I supply department stores & boutiques (womens). If you search my name on Fashion Capitals search engine you will come across a post I wrote entitled ' Your order Please!'

Many designers have already contacted me in regards to the tricks us salespeople use to attract & take wholesale orders. It's now Time for London Fashion week. Its our selling season. Read the post I speak about & contact me. I can certainly help & will help all new designers. It's tough out there but there are ways to achieve great success. Top end Boutiques Like Austique on the Kings Road, Yates Buchanan in Nottinghill, buy from me & are approachable, with the right Tactics. Read the post and email me if you are serious about your collection and want to know the in's and out's of approaching buyers from a salesman who does this, succesfully, on a daily basis.

=====