
Handbag sample makers? Any help/advice welcome!

Posted by Amazona - 2008/03/04 12:10

Can anyone give me details of someone/a company which will make up a leather handbag from sketches/Corel drawings in London? I need to get some working samples produced and I don't know where to go!

At the moment, the small factories for my production are all overseas. Are there any small factories in London or the South-East which do small (ish) orders of leather handbags and clutch bags? (And don't mind working with young/new designers!)

Any advice is greatly appreciated!

Hi Amazona

I know someone who is really good at designing and sowing handbags using different materials. I have seen some of her work and she is really good. I'll advise you to give her a call and who knows, she might be just what you are looking for. Her name is Angela and her mobile number is 07528368810.

Good Luck

Hey, Thanks for the name and number. I already design myself and have another designer working with me for the more technical drawings. Where is Angela based?

She is based in East London. I really think you should give her a call and find out more details from her in terms of what she can or cannot do and her flexibility and the rest of that.

Hi Monica,

Your bags are fab here in the Boutique and are selling extremely well as the clutch is a must have this season and yours are just delicious!

Why don't you open your own online Boutique through Fashion Capital - you are already a member so you are entitled to this. www.fashioncapital.co.uk receives a high volume of traffic so why not make the most of it and use another outlet we provide to increase your exposure. If you would like any more information or instructions just email me at emily@fashioncapital.co.uk

Kind Regards
