
Urgent: Looking for candidates for trend study

Posted by bluetopaz77 - 2008/05/15 00:24

Hello,

I'm currently working on an international consumer trends project and am looking for female candidates (specifically French, Spanish and British) between the ages of 18 and 29 to participate in a study concerning technology, lifestyle and customization (such as your mobile phone, computer, makeup, clothes, shoes, etc).

Participants living in France, Barcelona, Madrid or London, and of French, Spanish or British nationality are preferred. The study will consist of responding to a fun survey and/or sending in a short video (which can be filmed with your mobile phone) showing what is customized in your environment. The total time spent should not exceed more than about 30 minutes, and all information that you provide will stay confidential and will be only for internal use.

The deadline is Saturday, May 17. If you meet the above requirements and are interested and available to participate, please send a message specifying your email address, name, age, nationality and city of residence to bluetopaz_77@hotmail.com so that I can send you all the details. Please don't hesitate to have your friends contact me too as we are looking for several candidates.

Each participant will be paid an Amazon gift certificate for a value of 25 euros for responding to the questionnaire and 25 euros for sending the short video.

Thanks for your time and I hope you can participate!
Tess

=====