Designers needed to showcase at event in September

Hey all,

I am organising an official launch night for my label Thandie Olivia, to be held in September.

We would like to also showcase a couple of other up and coming womenswear designers as I feel strongly about creating platforms for the new designers out there!!

The Venue and exact date is yet to be confirmed, although it will definately be held in London and will be on the last weekend in September.

Models, hair and make-up will be provided, you'll just need to turn up on the day with your fabulous collection.

Theme is Ladies Night so will be plenty of potential female customers, as well as press and industry experts. Also to include live PAS from up and coming music artists, who we'd like designers involved to dress on the night.

Please email me your interest to enquiries@thandieolivia.com, along with a brief bio and some pics of your work.

Thanks Thandie

Hi would you just like to confirm what your label is - we normally recommend that if you are sharing a fashion show you should do so with complementary products not similar collections so there is no competition.

Best of luck

We should have instock a lovely selection of evening/prom dresses by then as well as our range of boutique dresses already online. Would be great to parade them on your catwalk.

Fay

Please tell us more about your event, the venue and what designs you will like to show?
