May I ask for your help.

I am 37yrs - So passed it !!! I have always been interested in Fashion - but my parents would not let me do Art or anything Fairy at school (80's).

So I am now a Butch Postman, But luv's Women's shoes (design - nothing Kinky) also luv Men's Mod clothing and shoes.

The Point: :P

I want to learn how shoes are made (Men's pref) even if its on a dvd - But I want to know how to make them, But I can not afford to leave my job or trips into expensive London and all the Posh schools :( - Does anyone know of courses -

Distance Courses - week full-time courses etc ? :) I live in Crawley :( Don't Laugh.

Also why does the Clothes Show adverts never show Men's clothes :mad:

Men luv clothes as well - I prefer shoes :)

Does anyone look at ebay ? Check out my site - Pinkpostie

All the best Girls & Boys - From the old man, Karl :P

Hi we work with an ex London College of Fashion graduate Silvia Campbell who is brilliant on shoes - she had a fantastic placement with Jimmy Choo and they loved her.

If you drop in a bio and a few words about yourself to Vanessa@fashioncapital.co.uk we will forward your details on to Silvia and lets see what happens.

By the way 37 is not THAT old!

Best
