
Fashion Capital!

Posted by eFABE - 2008/02/29 22:25

Are my eyes playing tricks on me, or are things changing on Fashion Capital? I am sure Community used to be Forum!!

I am liking the changes, makes me feel like the spring clean has come early.

There seems to be a buzz about the site, even more so in the last week.

Have a great weekend everyone.

Hi yes you are right a spring clean is occurring at the moment and we the site is buzzing too. Its never been so busy!

Just wanted to acknowledge as well all your fantastic entries. You have been so busy! Really intelligent and well thought replies too. If you are ever in London then do call us and lets have a chat!

FashionCapital is undergoing a huge improvement at the moment too. We are about to enter a highly specialised members part to the site. This will be fee paying but everything that you currently have will stay the same free of charge. The new areas will include highly specialised reports e.g. many of our designers don't know what a docket looks like, what is a legally binding confidentiality agreement, invoice terms and conditions...now all these will be available on the site for a monthly charge of just Â£9.99 plus VAT.

Thanks for everything you are doing...we have all been talking about you and your fab entries at the head office!

Regards

Jenny Holloway

Could you ask the web designers to have a larger central column for typing?

Just a thought

Thank you Jenny,

I feel very honoured you have taken the time to reply to my message and with such lovely comments and to think you are all talking about me as well (all good I hope!!), I am so chuffed.

Fashion Capital is proving to be an invaluable resource and I am so glad I found this website. Full of very useful information and great for new talent just starting out in the Fashion Industry as well as established Designers, Photographers, Models, Retailers and more.

I will certainly give you a call when I am in London for a chat.

Everyone at Fashion Capital have been just wonderful, supportive and very helpful, which means a lot when you are just starting out and don't know if you are coming or going!! Hence, I welcome all advice and suggestions with open arms.

Thank you all very much.

Regards

Bella
