
pattern/sample cutter available (end of may)

Posted by cutwork - 2008/04/28 20:43

I have been working for the past year as a sample cutter for a womenswear designer, where I am responsible for cutting the sample collection, small quantities of production, altering patterns, drawing up layplans and costings, answering the phone and serving customers at the twice yearly sample sales. I am keen to use my many skills and look forward to hearing from anyone with a fashion company based in central London to. For examples of my work please see the following websites;

www.openfolio.com/users/luratoal

www.creativeshake.com/luratoal

thank you

Laura

=====